

Listserv Usage

FCMAT/CSIS hosts various listservs to enhance communications among K-14 administrators, staff members, and professionals in related fields. The listserv resources are tools used by members to share information easily via e-mail.

When using a FCMAT/CSIS listserv, members should remember the following:

- Messages are not confidential, so good judgment should be used regarding message content.
- Any responses received are not intended to provide legal advice.
- Messages can and may be forwarded to individuals who are not subscribed to the listserv.
- Some subjects may not be appropriate for posting on a listserv, such as messages containing detailed information regarding specific individuals or situations.
- Use the listservs to gather general information, or, if necessary, present hypothetical situations for feedback.
- Some of the potential risks of listserv usage could include violation of the data practices act for releasing nonpublic data, defamation claims, and waiver of the attorney/client privilege.
- Members agree to indemnify FCMAT/CSIS against the potential risks identified above and any allegations of copyright and/or trademark infringement.
- Members assume for themselves, to the fullest extent permitted by law, expenses and damages in connection with claims against FCMAT/CSIS staff in connection with FCMAT/CSIS efforts to host and maintain the listservs.
